POLICEMAN EXONERATED FROM BLAME FOR KILLING RUSSIAN

Coroner's Jury Finds That Monessen Shooting Was Largely Accidential

PASCOE PERFORMING DUTY

Was Trying to Make Arrests and Quell Disturbance When Shooting Occurred—Tells His Story Cleanly And Without Hesitation.

Policeman Phillip Pascoe of Monessen was exonerated from blame for the killing of Peter Deletkanze, a Russian millworker of Donora, in a fight at Monessen last Sunday morning, when the coroner's jury sitting in the inquest conducted here Thursday evening by Coroner James T. Heffran rendered its decision. The shooting of Deletkanze, as the name is correctly spelled was entirely accidental, the jury found after hearing several witnesses including the policeman. The inquest was conducted at the undertaking rooms of Lawrence B. Frye and the testimony was taken by a jury consisting of I. P. Hepler, foreman; James Dawson, Ewing B. Todd, John Lane, Joseph P. Lytle and George Kammerer.

The verdict rendered read as follows: "We the jury find that Peter Deletkanze came to his death at the Charleroi-Monessen hospital, Washington county, Pa., on February 6, 1916 from hemorrhages as a result of a bullet wound in the liver and the stomach. We further find that said bullet wound was inflicted by a revolver in the hands of Policeman Phillip Pascoe of Monessen, Westmoreland county, Pa.

"We further find that the shot was fired by Officer Pascoe accidentally in the performance of his duty as an officer, and exonerate him from any criminal responsibility for the shooting."

Policeman Pascoe is now held under $3,000 bond in Westmoreland county on a charge of murder which was preferred more as a matter of formality by Sergeant Stout of the State Police, a personal friend of the Monessen policeman's. It is probable that the case will come before the May grand jury, but in all likelihood will be dismissed through a set form.

The story brought out by the witnesses was that Pascoe had tried to quiet a number of Russians who were boisterous upon returning from a Third street fete Sunday morning. Three of them had attacked him. He had shot twice at the street and had been surrounded. One man, the one who was killed, seized his gun from behind. Pascoe's finger was on the trigger and when the revolver was jerked it caused it to be fired. The bullet entered the Russian's abdomen and within a few hours time caused his death at the Charleroi-Monessen hospital.

On the stand Policeman Pascoe told his story cleanly and without hesitation. He said he had asked the Russians to be quiet and that after some argument one of them had struck him with a flashlight, knocking him down. During the trouble he fired two shots at the ground to frighten the Russians away, but they closed in the tighter on him. As he was trying to arrest two men a big man came at

PREACHES ON "WHEN CHURCH MEMBERS GET IN EARNEST"

Rev. Walter Corll Delivers Forceful Sermon at Baptist Church—Dr. Ewalt Coming Sunday.

At the First Baptist church Rev. Walter Corll preached a strong sermon Thursday evening from the theme, "When Church Members Get in Earnest." He claimed that the church should minister to the physical, social, intellectual and scriptural needs of the people in the community. If this advice were followed in the opinion of Rev. Corll there would be no vacant seats in our churches and the churches would be open every day in the week ministering to humanity.

Tonight Rev. Corll will preach his last sermon of the series, using for his topic, "Cut it Out." This service will be particularly for young people. Next Sunday evening Dr. H. W. Ewalt, a prominent layman from Pittsburg will speak at the Baptist church.

LARGE PAY AT DONORA MILLS

Nearly $200,000 Distributed Thursday to American Steel & Wire Workmen

ZINC WORKS PAY GROWING

The largest pay since before the holiday season was distributed at the Donora mills Thursday, the total amount at the three mills of the American Steel & Wire company being close to $200,000. The pay at the wire works is within $100 of the largest ever paid out at that mill, and is close to $80,000.

When the new rod mill is in operation and the several departments are running full time the pay at this mill alone will be about $100,000 every two weeks.

The pay roll at the zinc works is growing larger each month, and that at the steel works will be greatly increased by the new additions now under way there.

IMPROVED SERVICE BY MAIL TRAIN CHANGES

Mail Brought up River on Midnight "Bummer" to be Brought Back From Brownsville on Train Which Arrives Here at 6.06

Improved mail service may be the result of the decision of postal authorities to change the shipment of closed morning mail on an earlier train. Announcement of the change has been received by Postmaster J. K. Smith.

In the past there has been considerable planning and figuring necessary to get mail to Charleroi in the early morning. It has been brought here in a roundabout way, being carried out on the midnight train to Brownsville and then returned the following morning on the second train.

The change will be to give the local people the benefit of one hour's time from Brownsville. In place of mail coming down river on the 7:27 train, as has been the custom it will be sent on the train arriving here at 6:06. This is the closed mail from Pittsburg transferred from the midnight train and includes the morning orders for mills and industries. Consequently the change will be heartily welcomed.

MARKED INCREASE IN FIRST PRESBYTERIAN ATTENDANCE

Rev. Noble Preaches Forceful Sermon on "Heaven"—Solos Are Interesting Features.

There was a marked increase in attendance at the First Presbyterian church evangelistic meeting of Thursday evening and interest ran high. Rev. L. G. Noble the evangelist read thes cripture lesson and J. K. Brumbaugh offered prayer. Congregational singing was spirited. Mrs. I. P. Daniel sang an arrangement of the 103rd Psalm in a beautiful and inspiring manner.

Evangelist Noble chose "Heaven" for his subject. Unique in his method of combining details and wise in his choice of illustrations, Evangelist Noble was particularly forceful. He painted a picture of the heaven that will live in the minds of his hearers. After a brief prayer at the conclusion W. C. Clark sank in good voice "O They Tell Me of a Land" and Rev. A. J. Whipkey pronounced the benediction. The subject of tonight's sermon will be "Lifting and Drawing."

BIRTHDAY SURRISE HELD FOR JOHN J. STEINBAUGH

Checker Playing Featured. Close And Spirited Contests Being The Result.

A birthday surprise party was held for John J. Steinbaugh at his home on Fallowfield avenue Thursday evening, the affair being in honor of his 44th birthday. The party was arranged by Mrs. Steinbaugh and a party of about a dozen men responded to the invitations. Checker playing was a feature of the evening's diversions. The home was decorated with potted plants and cut flowers. At 10:30 a three-course luncheon was served. Mrs. Steinbaugh, assisted by her daughter, Miss Elizabeth and Mrs. John Seits serving. Those who were present were John Seits, Joseph R. Chalfant, W. S. Henning, William Blum, Paul Ryland, David Dixon, Dr. F. L. Crow, James Dixon, James Buchanan, Steve Buchanan, C. W. Albright, Dr. J. K. Smith and W. C. Hughes. In this number were some of the best checker players of the Monongahela valley. Spirited checker contests resulted.

PLAN CONSERVATION OF COAL PROPERTIES IN THIS COUNTY

Two Members of Creditors' Committee Visit at Washington Preaching Cooperation in Proceedings.

To conserve the coal properties held in Washington county and to gain the co-operation of creditors here in the plan to liquidate J. V. Thompson's indebtedness, the former Uniontown banker, accompanied by Attorney A. F. Cooper of Uniontown and G. R. Schugham of Cincinnati, the later two representing the Thompson creditors' committee, passed Thursday at Washington.

Attorney Cooper said: "The creditors everywhere are co-operating heartily with the committee and giving every possible assistance. There is no question now but that Mr. Thompson's affairs can be worked out so that everybody can eventually come out whole and the large part of the properties included in Mr. Thompson's assets be conserved.

VIOLET MERSEREAU TO APPEAR AT COYLE TODAY

One of daintiest of screen stars, Violet Mersereau will be the attraction at the Coyle theatre today. She will appear with Harry Benham in "The Path of Happiness." The picture is staged in the mountains of northern New York and pictures Violet Mersereau as a creation of the wilds. Les Miserables a nine part picture of the famous Victor Hugo classic will be shown Monday.

AFFADAVITS OF DEFENSE IN MUNICIPAL LIENS FILED

Affidavits of defense were filed Thursday to a number of municipal liens, for the improvement of the Pittsburg road in Bentleyville. The borough paved the street in the fall of 1913, without first securing the consent of the property owners abutting thereon, and has filed liens to collect 2-3 of the cost of the improvement. The affidavits of defense severally set up the allegations that the liens were filed too late and several irregularities in the proceedings.

POSTOFFICE GROUNDS TO BE BEAUTIFIED BY DEPARTMENT

Expert Landscape Gardener Will Be Employed—$175 The Appropriation For Purchasing Shrubbery.

Landscape gardeners will be put to work within the near future to beautify the government grounds at the postoffice, where extensive improvements are under contemplation.

Precisely $175 will be spent for shrubbery for the grounds and this should provide a considerable supply. However this will not by any means be the total expenditure.

Bids will probably be taken on the work and the one who gets the contract will have to put an expert landscape gardener on the work to see that it is properly done.

HAVE CLOSE CALL IN AUTOMOBILE

Donora Men Out on Test Ride in New Machine Smash Car Against Pole

ONE SUSTAINS INJURIES

About the first thing Lloyd Irwin did when he bought a new automobile from a Donora agency Thursday was to start out, it is said on a joyride, taking along two friends, Dennis O'Shea and Sam Genovese Results were rather disastrous.

Approaching Baird Station the machine was bowling along at a rate of something like 40 miles an hour when it skidded into a telephone pole. The pole stood the shock, but the machine did not. The three men were thrown helter skelter and the machine was smashed. Irwin and O'Shea escaped without severe injuries but Genovese received body bruises of considerable severity and two broken ribs.

METHODIST EPISCOPAL LADIES ARE ENTERTAINED

Mrs. Wesley G. Mead, Mrs. J. F. Laird, Mrs. F. W. Jones, Mrs. C. W. Albright, Mrs. D. B. Blaker, Mrs. James Dunlap, Mrs. D. Wagner and Miss Clark were hostesses to a throng of the women of the Methodist Episcopal church at the parsonage on Crest avenue Thursday evening. The evening was pleasantly spent in social conversation with a somewhat informal program being rendered consisting of instrumental music by Misses Gwen Treasure and Elma Collins and Mrs. Samuel Michener and readings by Mrs. Frank Welch.

Directing Head of Immense Glass Conern Succumbs to Heart Trouble

WAS ACTIVE FOR MANY YEARS

Entered Business About 40 Years Ago in Pittsburg—Has Had Important Part in Connection With Development of Glass Industry.

From heart trouble, George A. Macbeth, aged 71 years, the directing head of the Macbeth-Evans Glass company died this morning shortly before 10 o'clock at his home in the East End, Pittsburg. He had been in failing health for about two months.

With the death of Mr. Macbeth there passed one of the best known glass experts in this country. He was concerned perhaps more than any other man in the United States in the development of some of the finest kinds of illuminating glass ware of today and with the development of an industry the importance of which is universally recognized.

During the last few months Mr. Macbeth has given up much of his work and within the last two months he has taken comparatively few trips to his office in the down town district of Pittsburg. His last was that of two weeks ago.

FOR HARDWARE MEN

Five hundred delegates from Pennsylvania, New York, New Jersey, Delaware and Maryland attended the convention of the Pennsylvania and Atlantic Seaboard Hardware Men's association in Pittsburg this week and assembled a mass of inspiration and profit. That their sessions will be full of inspiration and help is shown by the address of President Ludlow. He hammered home some facts which the members will do well to apply when they return home. That his message is entitled to weight is shown both from what he said and from the fact that he has been given the highest gift within their power to confer. Here is what he said:

"Advertise! The local field is yours. All you need to do is to avail yourself of the opportunity offered. An advertisement in your local papers will carry your message into hundreds of homes. Let the people in the community know what you have for sale. This can only be done by advertising. You do not count for much unless people know about you. Advertise! The tree that falls in the middle of the forest makes no noise.'

"Advertising is today the mightiest factor in the business world and is just as essential to the retail hardware merchant as the building in which he does business. If by advertising you can get every man, woman and child in your vicinity to think of your name when hardware is mentioned your success is assured and you need not worry much amout mail order concerns and other competitors."

DOES NOT CONCERN US

Canadian censorship indicates that the extent of the damage inflicted by spies may be greater than it is willing to admit. Details are withheld and comments of Canadian newspapers are prevented from coming out over the news wires by the censors. Sweeping denunciation of those engaged in the work of destruction has been indulged in by some who have not stopped to think, says the Uniontown Herald.

Canada is at war. Destruction of munitions plants or depots, of canals and railroads used for military purposes, of whatever may aid Canada in furtehance of her war moves is justifiable under the rules of war. The persons who are engaged in such work are doing it subject to the penalties reserved for spies in war time. Their work is of a piece of such duties.

Destruction of public or private buildings not in use for war purposes is a different matter. It is beyond the pale of legitimate warfare and it has no justification from any standpoint.

But the matter is one for Canada to deal with. The offense is against Canada, not the United States and it should not concern us at all.

Washington county faced another homicide Friday morning of a mean kind that makes one wonder where the stop will be. Only fate prevented a crime of the worst sort, the murder of three persons by an outraged husband. In his ordinary senses we are told the man now in custody is a mild-tempered individual who is generally respected. There is at any rate some sympathy for him, considering the sordidness of the up-river affair. But the crime is one of those of which prevention is a problem for which justice must blindly grope for a solution.

If everybody would observe the spirit of what has been designated as "clean-up" week from February 21 to 26, business conditions generally would show quite an improvement. Many creditors are put off by the statement of the debtor, that he cannot pay because others have not met their obligations. When many business men are forced to the wall simply because they cannot get the money which is due them and have not sufficient capital to carry the accounts. Too many people assume obligations when they know that they may never be able to meet them. And much of this kind of business is encouraged through the loose credit system which is everywhere in vogue in business and

PICKED UP IN PASSING

The bride was doing the family marketing for the first time. She stopped at the fish stall and looked over the array of sea food.

"All perfectly fresh, ma'am," said the dealer ingratiatingly.

"Oh, dear," exclaimed the bride. "That's what everybody says. I wish I could find some stale fish. You see, my husband has indigestion and the doctor won't even let him eat fresh bread. I'm sure fresh fish would be even worse for him."

"What you need," said the doctor, after giving his patient a thorough examination, "is to get out in the open air more than you do. Take a long automobile ride every day."

"But I haven't got a car," objected the patient.

"That's all right. I'll sell you mine."

This Maid Gives Excellent Advice

A modern dude with narrow striped clothes, saddle-colored shoes, a loud necktie, hair parted over his nose, and smoking a cigarette, addressed his best girl thus: "If you was me and I was you, what would you do?" She unhesitatingly said, with a smile: "I would take off that hideous tie, put that cigarette in the stove, part my hair on the side then pray for brains." —Portland Review.

Cries Not Caused by Pain.

A well known merchant of New York has a $5 gold piece that he swallowed as a child of five immediately after its presentation to him. Doctors were summoned by twos and three and stomach pumps brought in a hurry. While waiting the little chap cried and cried, refusing to be soothed. His mother, hugging and moaning over her boy, supposed the cries meant pain. Just before the doctors came, however, a sharp inquiry by the donor of the gold piece brought out the sobbing statement by the little chap that he had no pain, but he wanted his gold piece back. Immediately another piece was placed in his hand and almost immediately his cries ceased.

Changing a Word's Meaning.

"Pension" is among the numerous cases of words of Latin origin specialized to mean something which the original did not mean to the Romans. "Pensio" signified simply a payment in the broadest sense; and we are at liberty to draw the sound moral that a pension is not really something thrown in as a gratuity, but deferred pay. The word for a soldier's pay was "stipendium;" and here we have another curious shift of meaning. Nobody speaks of a soldier's "stipend" now; it is a magistrate or a clergyman whose pay receives that name. The "stipendium" was paid in lumps three or four times a year, and the word came to be used to mean a year's term of service.

Talleyrand's Mean Joke.

Mme. de Talleyrand had the name of being as stupid as she was handsome, and her husband took a manly pleasure in leading her on to the commission of the most amazing blunders for the amusement of their guests. One day, for instance, when Denon, one of the savants whom Bonaparte had taken in his train on the expedition to Egypt, was to dine with them, Talleyrand told his wife that he was a traveler of note, whose last book he would give her to read. At dinner, Denon was at first delighted by the accuracy and discrimination of the compliments which Mme. de Talleyrand paid him, but she soon gave such feeling pause by saying: "And that good fellow Friday—what a comfort he must have been to you!" Talleyrand had given her "Robinson Crusoe" to read.

The Macdonald Clans.

The Macdonald Clan is by right of antiquity, power, and numbers usually accorded premier place among the great families of Scotland. In addition to the Clan of MacDonald itself there are MacDonald of Clanranald Macdonnel of Glengarry, MacDonald of the Isles and Sleat and MacDonald of Staffa.

Childhood's Right.

One of the principal ingredients in happiness of childhood is freedom from suspicion—why may it not be combined with a more extensive intercourse with mankind? A disposition to dwell on the bright side of character is like gold to its possessor: but to imagine more evil than meets the eye, betrays affinity for it. —Mrs. Sigourney.

Woman's Receptiveness.

When I think of talking, it is of course with a woman. For talking at its best being an inspiration it wants a corresponding divine quality of receptiveness, and where will you find this but in a woman?—O. W. Holmes.

Stark Realism.

An advance agent for a theatrical production was speaking to a newspaper man with reference to the wonderful powers of the leading woman. "Do you know," he said, enthusiastically, that in New York when she appeared as the dying mother in the last act an insurance man who had written her a policy for $10,000 actually fainted in the theater."

him from the front. Just then his gun was seized from the rear and the fatal shot fired. Six of the Russians were arrested. The wounded man was carried to a doctor's office and later sent to the Charleroi-Monessen hospital.

The witnesses heard, with one exception were all Monessen people. Dr. Edwin McKay a Charleroi physician performed the autopsy on the corpse of the Russian and told the cause of his death. Other witnesses in addition to Policemen Pascoe and Dr. McKay were Orbin Baker, Myron Taylor, Mrs. Myron Taylor, Harry Tuch, Michael Wanko, Policeman A. J. Stull and Burgess A. G. Dunlap.

The inquest was conducted in Charleroi by the Washington county coroner at the request of Westmoreland citizens. Usually the procedure would have been to simply turn over the case to Westmoreland.

Prince Albert fits your taste!

Meets the fondest wishes of any man who likes to smoke because it has the right flavor and aroma and coolness. It's the most cheerful tobacco you ever did pack in a jimmy pipe or roll into a cigarette. And it's so good you just feel you never can get enough. The patented process fixes that—and cuts out bite and parch!

Listen: It's easy to change the shape and color of unsalable brands to imitate the Prince Albert tidy red tin, but it is impossible to imitate the flavor of Prince Albert tobacco! The patented process protects that!

When you fire up your first smoke you'll decide that you never did taste tobacco that hits your fancy like

For it exceeds in goodness and satisfaction the kindest word we ever printed about it!

Men, we tell you this tobacco will be a revelation to you. So, take this information at 100%, get out the old jimmy pipe from its hiding place or locate the makin's papers —and fall-to!

Your wishes will be gratified at the nearest store that sells tobacco, for Prince Albert is in universal demand. It can be bought all over the states and all over the world! Toppy red bags, 5c; tidy red tins, 10c; handsome pound and half-pound tin humidors—and—that fine pound crystal-glass humidor with sponge-moistener top that keeps the tobacco in such excellent trim.

AMONG THE THEATRES

PALACE—CHARLEROI

Featuring Helen the wonderful girl drummer the Three Musical Woods company the last three days this week are appearing as the headliner attraction at the Palace theatre. The act is one of much interest, with the members of the company being entertainers of much ability. George M. Davis is apearing as a baritone singer, Swiss yodeler and character comedian and dancing Dalys as acrobatic whirlwind dancers. The first part of this week was rich in entertainment. The Southern Trio appeared with their own stage setting to give their unusual singing and dancing act, Lulu Theis apeared as a black face singing, dancing and whistling comedienne. Raymond and Emerson, Irish fun makers made a hit with their act. Many were the picture features of the week. A strong show is billed for Saturday.

COYLE—CHARLEROI.

"The Fourth Estate" a William Fox production, that hit at the forces that conspire to control the public press was the attraction at the Coyle theatre Monday night. Clifford Bruce and Ruth Blair appeared in the leading roles of the picture. Valeska Suratt one of the most famous actresses of the American stage enacted the role of Masha, a Russian peasant girl in "The Immigrant" which was shown Tuesday. This picture showed the prominent star in an entirely different role than any other she has apeared in. "The Turmoil" a story of typical American life with Valli Valli in the feature role was the attraction of Wednesday. Thursday "The Old Homestead" a picture taken from the stage success of the same name was shown. The story is one of heart interest and one of human everyday life. Much interest has been aroused over the announcement of "Les Miserables" a motion picture version of Victor Hugo's masterpiece which will be shown Monday.

MAJESTIC—CHARLEROI

"Bought," a Shubert production was the attraction at the Majestic theatre Monday. The picture depicted the life of a young author who was bought for the husband of a society woman in order that she could be protected from the tongues of the gossips. "The God's of Fate" one of the most wonderful of screei productions was shown Tuesday. The feature of the picture was a railroad wreck between a freight and passenger train. This was staged near Altoon. Mignon Anderson and Harris Gordon shared starring honors in "The Mill on the Floss," which was shown Wednesday. An original story of New York life "Her Great Hour" featuring Molly McIntyre, the famous scotch actress was the Thursday atraction. In addition to the special feature pictures a number of short dramas and comedies were shown each day. Regina Badet the Bernhardt of the screen featured "No Greater Love" shown Friday.

ALVIN—PITTSGURG

Robert Louis Stevenson's "Treasure Island," the dramatization of which has been made by Jules Eckert Goodman as it will be presented by Charles Hopkins at the Alvin Theatre, Pittsburg the week of February 14, is undoubtedly the most elaborate and ambitious scenic production of the season.

The play opens in the Admiral Ben Bow Inn, where we see Capt Bill Bones bullying the villagers into singing his famous "Fifteen men on a dead man's chest, yo-ho-ho and a bottle of rum," the fight between Black Dog and Bill Bones, Blind Pen giving the Beak Spot to Bill Bones, the latter's death after bequeathing his much wanted chart, "Flint's Fist," to little Jim Hawkins, the sacking of the inn, the planning of the expedition.

The famous story is unraveled scene by scene until the treasure is found.

NEW DAVIS—PITTSBURG

Sam Bernard will be surrounded by fast company in vaudeville at the New Davis Theatre next week, where beginning Monday afternoon, February 14 a group of nine first class refined Keith acts will be offered each afternoon and evening. Mr. Bernard who is perhaps best known to the whole theatregoing public as the star of "He Came From Milwaukee," will deliver a monologue of bright new wit and humor which however will be a sort of retospect of his performances in the varieties twenty-five years ago. Miss Claire Vincent a gifted comedienne from the legitimate stage will be supported by Frank H. Gardner and Walter R. Ross in a comedy of today by Richard Warner entitled, "The Recoil." Grace Fisher a young society woman who prefers the stage to the drawing room will sing a group of songs of cheery motif. Bert Cole will introduce Billie Burke's latest vaudeville novelty "Tango Shoes." Olympit Desvall the beautiful European equestrienne and her company will show their well traineed horses and dogs. Percy Bronson and Winnie Baldwin are to offer "1916 Songology." Alexander Brothers through their cleverness of vision and lightning swiftness will make ball tossing a real art and a certain divertisement. Besides Mr. Davis has several other attractions on tapis in addition to a showing of Geo. Ade fables in slang by motion pictures.

GRAND—PITTSBURG

A delightful variation in the themes that the Harry Davis Stock company have been giving in the plays of this season will be noted next week, commencing Monday at the matinee at the Grand Opera house with the first production of "The Road to Happiness" by any stock company. This is that charming story of optimism from the pen of Lawrence Whitman which was so succesfully told by William Hodge for whom the drama was intended. It appeared last season in Pittsburg with Mr. Hodge in the title role. The story of this homely little rural drama is centered around a tiny country village in which Ben Hardcastle a domineering village boss ruled and overawed his neighbors and even the village church as well as his wife and children. The happy ending of the play with the broken spirit of Hardcastle is thoroughly in keeping with the story's vein of the romance. "The Road to Happiness" is a continuous story with no intermissions in thought nor action. Yet through the scenes, there runs a quiet, well planned, thoroughly sensed moral that leaves a most profound impression in the mind of the audience. It appeals to the better sense of mankind. With the efficient organization of the Harry Davis Stock company the production of this work will be a most interesting event for this season.

SQUIRREL HUNT OF LONG AGO

Ohio Farmers, in 1822, Slaughtered Nearly Twenty Thousand, and the Others Fled.

At the dedication of a monument to Ludwig Sells and his wife in the Dublin cemetery in Franklin county, Ohio, Rev. Byron R Long gave an interesting account of the great squirrel hunt of September 1822, which was said to have ended the serious depredations of the squirrels in the fields of the farmers there

The Columbus Gazette of August 21, 1822, referred to the great damage being done by squirrels and published an address to the farmers suggesting a county squirrel hunt. The farmers of several townships were asked to select representatives to make the arrangements

The preliminary meeting says the Columbus Dispatch, was held. One of the delegates from Washington township, in which Dublin is located was Peter Sells a son of Ludwig Sells

The hunt was held and the farmers turned out in mass spending two or three days in slaughtering the squirrels The count as far as made reached a total of 19,950 skins but as many of the hunters failed to report the number shot by them the total was no doubt really in excess of that

Still this number, great as it was [illegible] great effect on the damage done by the squirrels. But the pioneers tell of a great migration by the squirrels following the raid.

The little animals moved like ants in countless droves, going straight ahead and turning aside for no obstacle They went over precipices and swam rivers in their persistent course They seemed to be in command of some leader and obeyed without fear of ordinary enemies.—New York Sun.

DIFFER ON VIEWS OF SOAP

Authorities Throughout the Centuries Have Never Been in Agreement on the Point.

Here comes a health officer with advice to use soap. He says it does not injure the complexion, and that it increases the general cleanliness of the race

On the face of the advice, this health officer appears to be old-fashioned, remarks the Cleveland Plain Dealer modern exquisites shun the use of soap except in the bath and for purposes of removing difficult dirt from the hands Soap on a pretty face is almost sacrilege. Warm water and wash cloths are relied on to remove all soil from delicate complexions, without the danger of soapy alkalies.

But in reality the doctor is new fashioned. For our old heroes and heroines did not even know the meaning of soap. Laura, Berengaria, Rosamund and Marguerite lived before soap was invented, yet they were cleanly damsels, inspirations of poets, wielders of iron sway over men of brains. The ancients—Sappho, Aspasia, Cornelia and even Poppaea—never dreamed of such a thing as soap.

On the whole, this health officer must be classed as a medievalist. He is neither ancient nor modern. And there is no likelihood that his advice will have the slightest effect on the users and nonusers of soap.

Skunk's Weapon of Defense.

Some animals use sprays which are not only strongly irritant, but possess a most powerful and disgusting odor. "Chiefest among these is the American skunk, which has attained a world-wide notoriety," says Doctor Pycraft. "Its weapons of defense lie in a pair of glands at the base of the tail, and so conscious does their possessor appear to be of their formidable character that he makes no attempt to escape when approached either by man or dog. From these glands an amber-colored, most pungent and acrid fluid can be expelled and with force enough to carry several yards.

"Should a drop enter the eye violent inflammation, or even blindness may result. But the fumes from this fluid are even more to be dreaded than the fluid itself, for, unless well diluted with atmospheric air, they are destructive to the respiratory passages. The skunk thus makes a use of poison gas for the discomfiture of its foes."

Virginia.

The area of Virginia is 9,564 square miles, its population by the 1910 census 2,061,612. Its chief agricultural products are tobacco, apples, peaches and other fruits; corn, wheat, oats buckwheat and barley; peanuts; cabbages, potatoes and other vegetables and the native and cultivated grasses and clovers which yield an abundance of hay. Virginia is "essentially an agricultural state." The mean temperature for July, 1913, was 75.4, for December 37.7. The annual rainfall is from 40 to 60 inches, fairly well distributed through the entire year. The population of Norfolk is 85,005.

Almost a Getaway.

"Where are you going?" asked the proprietor of a rooming house who was roused in the early hours of the morning just in time to catch a lodger creeping stealthily downstairs with his baggage in his hands.

"Oh—er," stammered the lodger, "I was walking in my sleep."

"Umph! It's a lucky thing I wasn't walking in my sleep. I might have dreamed you paid me before you tried to leave."

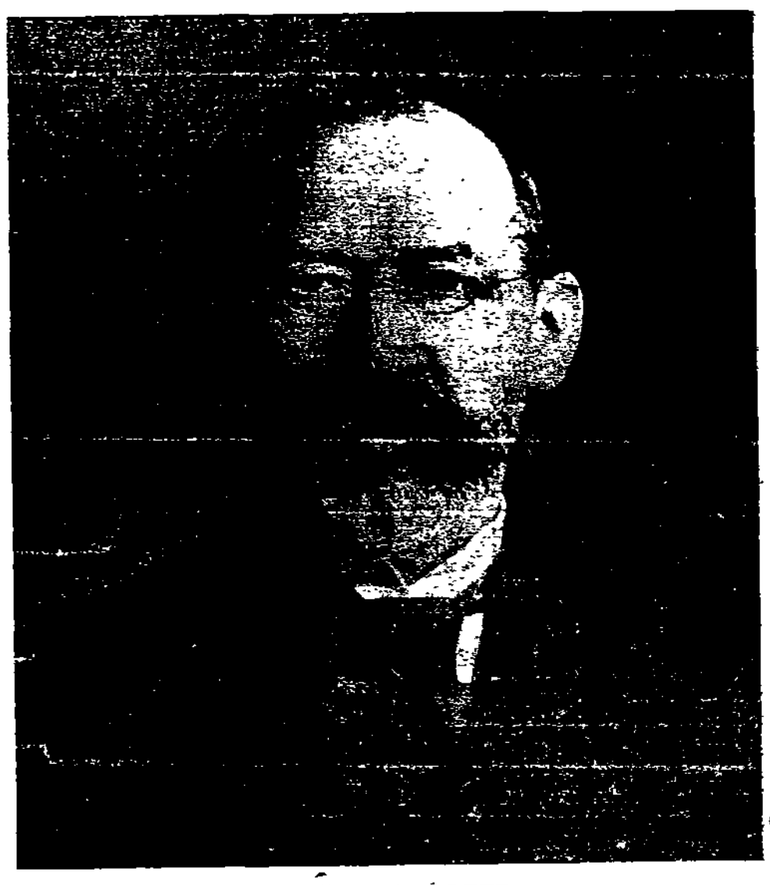
GEORGE A. MACBETH DIES



GEORGE A. MACBETH.

Mr. Macbeth entered the glass business as a boy and about 40 years ago established a plant on the Southside, Pittsburg. He manufactured lamp chimney ware chiefly, this being before the time when gas or electricity was universally used. About 25 years ago his business and that of Thomas Evans a Southside manufactured were combined under the firm name of Macbeth-Exans Glass Compasy. Through successive stages this firm has become probably the largest manufacturing concern of illuminating glass ware and lighthouse lenses in the United States. Factories have been operated at Charleroi, Marion. Ind., Ellwood, Ind., Toledo, Ohio, and Pittsburg. All with the exception of the Pittsburg plant are now in operation with the Charleroi factory being the largest. Here are manufactured lighthouse lenses, among other ware, that are the standards for lighthouse use in the United States.

Not only was M. Macbeth a glass manufacturer, but he was a banker as well. For a number of years he was a member of the board of directors of the First National bank here, retiring about seven or eight years ago on account of his inability to give bank matters his attention. Also he was for a number of years the president of the Charleroi Savings and Trust company and one of the largest stockholders in the institution. He also retired from activity in connection with this bank some time ago.

Mr. Macbeth's wife died about two years ago. He is survived by one son George D. Macbeth of Pittsburg formerly of Charleroi and two married daughters.

Funeral arrangements have not yet been announced.

MASTER REMEDY TANALAC WILL BE INTRODUCED HERE

Seems to Master When Everything Else Fails—Remarkable Record.

Tanlac, the celebrated new medicine that is now being so widely discussed and distributed in Pittsburg, where thousands of bottles are being sold weekly, will be introduced here at Piper's Pharmacy.

Of course, the introduction of that premier preparation here will be in connection with the campaign in the big cities, but this place will reap all of the advantages of a bona-fide agency, arrangements for the distribution of Tanlac having already been in such a manner as to guarantee its full benefits.

The demand for Tanlac has been phenomenal throughout the country. It is a preparation that seems to appeal to the best people everywhere, men and women who judge its merits impartially and who render a fair verdict. Over one million bottles of the preparation are said to have been actually sold in the larger cities within nine months' time.

Speaking of the preparation itself, one of the Tanlac representatives said "Tanlac is a scientific remedy of proven merit. It represents the maximum strength of roots, barks and herbs that are gathered from the remotest parts of the world and compounded by a skilled chemist into a uniform efficiency even as mysteriously as famous mineral waters are formed.

"Tanlac is called the 'Master Medicine' because it seems to master when everything else fails. It quickly overcomes stomach, kidney and intestinal ailments, is especially efficacious and valuable in instances of catarrh and will actually prolong life by restoring and keeping up the vigor of youth.

"Thousands in Pittsburg and other large cities of the country are testifying daily to the merits of Tanlac and expressing an abiding faith in its powers as a superior preparation."

NERVOUS--NO APPETITE

Hartford Woman Tells How She Regained Strength.

Hartford, Conn. "I was run-down nervous, no appetite, could not sleep, and had no strength, an old lady told me how much Vinol had helped her when in a like condition. I tried it and noticed an improvement within a week. It soon built up my strength my nervousness disappeared and I can sleep well. I have never found any remedy equal to Vinol to create strength." Mrs. Clara Burr.

It's the tonic iron the medicinal extractives of fresh cod's liver without oil, and beef peptone contained in Vinol that makes it so successful in enriching the blood and creating strength for run-down, nervous, overworked women.

We have seen such wonderful results right here in Charleroi from the use of Vinol that we will return the money in every such case where it fails to give satisfaction. Pipers Drug Store.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR SOCIETIES MEET HERE

Representatives of District Organization Gather in Chareroi for Conference—Talk of Coming Convention Here in June.

The young people representing the Christian Endeavor work of this distrist met Thursday evening in the Washington Avenue Presbyterian church and carried out a pleasing program in honor of the anniversary of the society. Delegations were present from Bentleyville, Ellsworth and Donora and these added to the local societies made a large gathering.

John H. Clutter the president of the Washington Avenue society acted as chairman and several took part in the program. Miss Mary L. Chaney and Miss Mary Day, representing the Bentleyville society, spoke on "Christian Endeavor and the Open Door" and "Christian Endeavor in Action." William McFall representing the Christian society of Charleroi discussed the "Endeavor Principals" and he was followed by another member of the same society, Walter Ailes, who described his visit to the congregational church in Portland Maine where the organization had its birth and spoke of hearing Dr. Francis E. Clark speak.

Donora was represented by Albert C. Pritchard and Rev. William Stewart who discussed "Present Day Endeavor" and "Loyalty to the Best." A piano duet was played by Miss Bethel Bowman and Mrs. Clifford Robertson and a trio was sung by the Misses Emma Clutter, Nora Swan and Mamie Rockwell. During the social hour which followed the program, reference was made to the fact that in June of this year the county Christian Endeavor convention will be held in Charleroi. Suggestions were made regarding a union for the five districts organizations and hopes were expressed that such a plan may be carried out.

CRADLE OF THE WORLD IS SCENE OF WAR'S WRATH

Campaign in Mesopotamia Differs From Every Other Operation in Old World.

CRUEL, TREACHEROUS PEOPLE

British Official Report Tells of Events Before the Reversal at Ctesiphon —Kut Is Captured After Fierce Battle Across Level Plain.

London.—The official press bureau has just given out a picturesque account of the campaign for Bagdad by Sir Mark Sykes. He describes the victory of Kut and deals with events before the British reverse at Ctesiphon, further up the Tigris He says:

The campaign in Mesopotamia differs beyond all words from every other operation taking place in the world in this year of war. It may be called the Cinderella of campaigns, for indeed, if past history and modern engineers tell a tale to be believed, the swamps and wastes of Irak will be changed within the life of the present generation into something as different from themselves as were the mice and pumpkin of the fairy story.

The lawless and ignorant tribesmen of Persia are being urged and organized to plunder Bushire, Bander Abbas and Jask by erstwhile commercial travelers; the half-witted Persian fanatic is deliberately encouraged to assassinate British and Russian consular officials in the provincial capitals. To meet and check this policy Great Britain must needs detach small bodies of troops at Charbar, Jask and Bushire. In each of these places a small handful of Indian troops under a few British officers give peace and security to traders foreigners and Persians alike.

Inland the tribesmen roam in anarchy; on the shore peaceful commerce is protected from their onslaught by these little oands of exiles.

On the southern side of the gulf at Muscat and Bahrein again we find similar isolated groups, in each place holding in check those forces of disorder and violence which the enemy's agents seek to provoke, but on the Arabian shore the star of Germany is on the wane, the Arab sailor folk know that on the sea "Allemani" are no more. These Arabs, who cruise as far afield as Zanzibar and find their way to Malabar across the open sea without sextant or master's certificate have learned that the flag of Germany cannot be shown upon the waters of the earth so long as war lasts, and the word has gone through the Arabian coasts that he who would trade abroad must be the friend of the Ingliz, who spoiled the slave trade in years gone by and lately stayed the traffic in arms.

Cruel, Treacherous People.

A winding river which is restless in its bed, capricious in its fall, uncertain in its rise, and sown with shifting shoals and sands is the sole means of communication between Bagdad and the sea; it is the inevitable line of supply, advance or retreat for Turks and British. On either hand stretches limitless plain, showing a horizon as level as the sea save for here and there a mound of ancient ruin, a bare ridge or faint undulation. This unending plain, however, must not be imagined to be of completely easy passage, for its faint depressions are swamps of unknown shape with bays and inlets, while at right angles to the river banks run dried canals and cuttings with hard ridges on either hand.

As for the population, it is base semi-momadic Arab, cruel, treacherous, and rascally as the town influence can make it, yet predatory with primitive Bedawi instinct.

To these people, Turkish corruption, smugglers and a year's war have brought a wealth of arms and munitions; without any cohesion or policy they are neither for British nor Turk: on the day of battle they haunt the outskirts of the fight, plunder the wounded and stragglers impartially, harass the retreat of the defeated side, hoist white flags over their tents and make professions of unswerving fidelity to whoever seems to be in the ascendant.

Before the occupation of Kut matters were thus: astride the river stood the Turks: on the left bank three swamps were linked by chains of entrenchments traced with every device known to the science of the Teutonic engineer; on the right bank the position was continued with equal care and preparation, and so conforming itself in relation to the bends in the river as to oblige an enemy endeavoring to turn it from the landward side, to make a detour which could not be compassed unobserved in the space of one dark night. In this position was firmly established a force of Turks numerically superior, well armed, plentifully supplied and supported by a greater number of field guns than those against them.

Seven miles in rear of this prepared position lay the town of Kut; midway between Kut and the entrenchments the river was spanned by a pontoon bridge. On the night of September 27 the striking force of the British army in Mesopotamia lay six miles from the Turkish entrenchments. On the night of the 29th the British were in occupation of Kut with above a thousand prisoners, half the enemy's artillery, and a considerable quantity of ammunition in their hands, while the Turkish army was putting as large an available space between itself and its enemy as the river, the Arabs the swamps and canals would allow.

Amid the din and thunder of the great war this achievement may pass almost unnoticed and yet such a battle to fight across a level plain in the face of perfect entrenchments, modern artillery and machine guns, in an unmapped country, with rumors of large forces of hostile tribesmen menacing communications, will, when things come to be reasoned out and proportioned, rank well enough in our annals.

Kut the day after its occupation was as Kut of the day before, yet with a difference, the Turks had gone and the British had come.

The British soldier and his brother, the Senoy were in possession. Now neither Briton nor Indian owe any debt of gratitude to the Arab tribesmen who have plundered, wounded, mutilated the dead, sniped, pilfered, spied and betrayed; there is no reason why our fighting men should distinguish between the inhabitants of the towns and the encampments; roughly dress, language, habits and appearance are one, and in war the soldier has no time for nice ethnological differences and the historical influences.

No Justice or Right Doing.

The British or Indian soldier does not know that since Ja'afer the Barmecide was executed by the despairing Harun-al-Rashid no man south of Bagdad has stood for justice and right doing; that all has been wrong doing from the age when Ma'amun fought Amin for Bagdad, to the day when Hulagu the monster pierced the canals and annihilated by famine a population of 11,000,000, and thence to the committee of union and progress and the concessionaires who have thrived on intrigue and wickedness in these later days.

All the English and the Indian soldier knows is that his dead comrades bodies are stripped and sometimes mutilated, that if a trooper lose his way alone he is little likely to return that perhaps a bullet has sung past his own topi or puggaree from a mud wall above which flutters a white flag, that he has now and again found a dear loved friend lying, an offense against the morning light, with throat cut from ear to ear; consequently for good or ill the word Arab is not one to evoke the gentlest feelings in our soldier's breast.

This digression is necessary to appreciate the manner of the occupation of Kut—the Turks had fled in haste, our men, both horse and foot, reached the town soon after they had gone For the last week the Turkish commander had been maintaining his prestige by daily hangings and shootings, his last act before leaving had been to shoot six individua's for desertion, spying or cowardice.

Enter the victors: within an hour the women were chaffering milk, dates and sweet limes, the merchants were offering contracts, policemen were patrolling the dirty little streets, a governor was established in an office—tired troops were standing in the sun while billets were sought for them, and most unbelievable of all the Arab cultivators were dropping in to complain of a certain horseman who had ridden through a crop of beans, and of a supply and transport officer who had parked his belongings in a garden.

The Rule of Terror.

It must not be supposed that our coming evoked enthusiasm, nor our justice gratitude, nor our discipline admiration; to the Arab mind these are not the qualities of "kingliness"—a king must rule by terror and be guided by caprice—read the chronicles of Tabari and you will there see what kingliness was in Ommayad and early Abbasid days. Hajjaj when he ruled Irak said no man must be abroad after sundown, and presently they brought to him a certain Bedawi who had been found asleep in the market place—"I live in the desert and I knew not of the order O most auspicious Governor." "If you are telling a lie you will be executed and burn in hell, and if you are telling the truth you will die a martyr's death and dwell in paradise," replied Hajjaj, and they hewed the Bedawi in pieces. Now, that sort of justice is the zenith of traditional government in Irak, and when people come with policemen and low taxation and quiet, then they will be regarded as persons whose motives are as inscrutable as their actions.

Kut is a dirty, tumble-down, insanitary little town, but the minaret and the portals are signs of grace. They are not very old, yet in design and line they are as perfect as the best work of ancient times, and they signify that under the crust and filth of ages of neglect and mismanagement the Arab fires of intellect, poetry and art survive—where the land is not sodden with marsh or parched for want of water it is as fertile as in the days when the world's civilization radiated from its prosperity—so with the people deep down under the wilderness and chaos induced by centuries of evil rule and poverty there lies the capacity which made Nineveh, Babylon, Persia, Parthia, and again Persia, and lastly the Caliphate, the center of Asiatic culture, progress and wealth.

BOTH RAY AND D'SANDERS PRIMED FOR BOUT TOMORROW

Both Johnny Ray and Dick DeSanders are making claims and predicting victories in their match as the main bout of what promises to be a particularly interesting and exciting boxing show at the Charleroi rink tomorrow night. Ray and DeSanders are working hard in anticipation of the match. The semi final will be fought by Jimmy Gray of McKeesport and Al Clark of New Rochelle, N. Y., while the second event will be a mill between Joe Larue of Charleroi and Dad Copsie of Donora, both hard fighters. The first event will be a mill between Young Nichols of Brownsville and Kid Fetti of Charleroi. William Riley of Monessen will referee all bouts.

FIRST OF SERIES OF SOCIAL EVENTS BY HOMLIS MEDLIRS

The Homlis Medlirs a local club of young men and their friends were entertained Thursday evening at the home of Gibson Hill on Washington avenue. The affair was the first of a series of events that they have planned for the year. There were ten couples present and an enjoyable evening was spent with games and music as the diversions. A sumptuous luncheon was served by the host's mother Mrs. J. M. Hill. A number of out of town guests were present.

Costly Animal Pests.

Australia is cursed with certain pests, such as rabbits, wild dog, kangaroo and blowfly. Large sums of money are spent in an endeavor to lessen the number of rabbits. It is estimated that in Victoria alone 150,000,000 were put to death in 1913. It is generally admitted that ten rabbits eat as much as one sheep, and many graziers have long since realized that they cannot profitably run sheep on properties infested with rabbits. Natural enemies, such as foxes and wild dogs, which are troublesome in certain districts tend to keep the rabbits in check, assisted by the wire netting fences that landholders are erecting. Kangaroos have caused considerable damage in the northwest part of Western Australia where ranch owners are said to have paid for thousands of scalps.—From Report of United States Consul Magenssen at Melbourne.

Enthusiasm.

Enthusiasm is always connected with the senses, whatever be the object that excites it. The true strength of virtue is serenity of mind combined with a deliberate and steadfast determination to execute her laws. That is the healthful condition of the moral life; on the other hand, enthusiasm, even when excited to representations of goodness, is a brilliant but feverish glow which leaves only exhaustion and languor behind.—Kant.

Chronic Discouragers.

It is really very curious to observe how, even in modern times, the acts of discouragement prevail. There are men whose sole pretence to wisdom consists in administering discouragement. They are never at a loss. They are equally ready to prophesy, with wonderful ingenuity, all possible varieties of misfortune to any enterprise that is proposed: and when the thing is produced, and has met with some success, to find a flaw in it.—Helps.

Excessive Talking.

The excessive talking in which many girls indulge is a decided element of nervous strain. I have heard of a "silence club," the members of which try to refrain from all unnecessary talking. Gushing and useless chattering is against the principle of this club. It has been said that the Japanese girls preserve their youthfulness far longer than their American sisters. They live quiet lives and do not waste their words.
